PROFITEERS FRIENDS ARE DEFEATED

Assembly Members in Attempt to Defeat Huber Amendment

IS LOST 42 TO 31

Cunningham Deportation Resolution is Then Sent Defeat

By FRED L. HOLMES

Senator Huber's amendment to the Cunningham deportation resolution for the deportation of profiteers who violate orders of the war labor board together with alien enemies and persons convicted of disloyalty stirred the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature Wednesday.

When the house by a vote of 42 to 31 refused to reject the profiteer amendment, the assembly turned on the amnesty resolution and killed it, without a roll call.

Two resolutions relating to amnesty were on Wednesday's assembly calendar. On motion of Ehlman the amnesty resolution providing for a soldier's referendum on the question of amnesty was tabled to await the consideration of another resolution on this subject still pending before the assembly judiciary committee.

It was the Cunningham resolution for the deportation of aliens, persons convicted of disloyalty and war profiteers who violate orders, that riled the assembly. The whole debate centered around the profiteering question. Assemblyman John Donnelly, Milwaukee, introduced an amendment to strike out the profiteering section, which has been incorporated into the resolution by Senator Huber in the senate by a vote of 26 to 3.

"I do not think the Huber profiteering amendment is germane," declared Assemblyman Donnelly. "I would have no objection if Senator Huber's idea was incorporated in a separate resolution, but I think it is unfair to attack on an amendment of this kind."

"The senate knew what it was doing," declared Assemblyman Metcalfe. They understood that this amendment was germane."

"If it is all right to send one class of undesirable citizens out of the country then it should be just as proper to send out another class of undesirable," declared Assemblyman Klein.

"I think profiteers who violate federal war labor board orders are just as culpable as men sent to jail for making disloyal remarks."

"There are profiteers among other classes," declared Assemblyman Nolan. "Don't you think this resolution should extend to laboring men who violate orders from the war labor board as well as profiteers."

ANNA GOTSTEIN IS FINED $500 FOR FORGERY

Miss Anna Gotstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Gotstein, 1263 East Johnson street, was fined $500 in federal court yesterday on her plea of guilty, following her arrest by Deputy Marshall Touton on charges of forging United States securities.

The case was held open temporarily yesterday pending the arrival of her mother. The young woman, sometimes known as Anna Gotstein Halverson, it is alleged, forged the name of her sister-in-law, Louise Gotstein, in order to receive the $30 allotment of her brother, Horace I. Gotstein, who was in military service. The arrests followed the complaint of the wife saying she was not receiving her allotments.

SUFFRAGE PASSES IN THE HOUSE

Susan B. Anthony Draft Favored by Representatives in Short Debate

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The woman suffrage constitutional amendment resolution was passed today by the house after less than three hours' debate.

Consideration of the equal suffrage constitutional amendment resolution began in the house shortly after noon under an agreement to close general debate in two hours and with leaders expecting a vote immediately afterwards. Calling up the resolution Representative Mann, republican of Illinois, chairman of the woman suffrage committee, asked unanimous consent to extend the time for debate to 5 o'clock, but Representative Ferris, democrat of Kansas, refused to agree. Representative Little, republican of Kansas, opened the debate with an address in support of the resolution.

The resolution is the historic Susan B. Anthony draft, proposing submission to the states of an equal franchise amendment to the constitutional. It was adopted by the last house on January 10, 1918 but twice failed in the senate.

CURTIS IN HOP OVER SIERRAS SLIGHTLY HURT

Makes an Aeroplane Flight in Spite of Bad Air Pocket

Word has been received here by W. D. Curtis that his son, Tobin Curtis, was slightly injured after making an airplane flight over the Sierra mountains from Sacramento to Ogden.

According to the letter received here, Tobin and his pilot succeeded in getting over the mountains and they were within a short distance of Ogden when they had to land for gasoline. In landing the accident happened and Curtis was shaken up and bruised. He was laid up in a small town near Ogden.

The flight over the mountains was made successfully in spite of bad air conditions. Difficult "air pockets" were encountered in the flight.

Kill Insurance Bill For Auto Owners

The senate killed by a vote of 20 to 5 the Ford bill providing that automobile owners shall carry $5,000 liability insurance. Senator Foss made a lengthy statement in favor of his measure which, he declared, has been introduced for the purpose of protecting persons injured and killed in automobile accidents who were unable to recover judgments awarded by the courts. The senate adjourned until Thursday.

Hanson Recall is Passed; No Roll Call

Without a roll call and without a word of comment the assembly unanimously passed the state affairs committee bill, introduced as a substitute to the C. E. Hanson bill, after the original measure had been vetoed, giving the legislature power to recall appointive state officials for the "good of the service."

GERMANY WILL NOT SIGN, DECISION OF THE CABINET; CLEMENCEAU IN ANSWER

Too Late for Germany to Discuss Responsibility Says Frenchman

ALSO REFERS TO 1871

Says Germany Also Made Russia Responsible for Imperial Regime

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS—It is too late for Germany to seek to deny both the aggression in the war and her responsibility for it. This declaration is made by Premier Clemenceau as president of the peace conference in replying to the German note on reparations, the text of which with the reply, was made public last night.

The argument put forth by Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau was that Germany did not start a war of aggression, that the German people were convinced they fought a defensive war and that the present German government cannot be held responsible for faults of the former German government.

Premier Clemenceau takes up the points made by the German delegation and declares that the German government last November made no protest against the charge in a note of Secretary of State Lansing, that Germany was the aggressor. The president of the conference points out further that Germany made the French government of 1871 responsible for the acts of the imperial regimes in France and Russia.

VOLNEY BARNES MAY REMAIN AT HIGH SCHOOL

Question of Salary May be Fixed to Meet Resignation Reason

Volney Barnes may remain as principal of the Madison high school. This became known following informal discussion at the executive session of the school board last night. It was said that the question of salary might be adjusted in such a way as to meet the reasons which Mr. Barnes gave for his resignation.

Action was deferred on the medical committee report presenting the question of the school board assuming the volunteer dental clinic's work now conducted by the Associated Charities. The city health department may take up dental as well as medical inspection of schools. It was suggested that a dental student might be obtained at $1,500 a year, giving the work his entire time. Two half days a week are given to the work now by city dentists.

Names suggested for the new school on the east side were H. M. Lewis, Judge J. H. Carpenter, former presidents of the school board, and Dr. C. R. Van Hise. An east side committee may be appointed to choose the name.

The teachers' committee reported Miss Irene E. Fuller, assistant principal of Doty school, has been released from next year's contract, and that Miss Virginia Wattawa has been appointed mathematics teacher in the high school. Other appointments are Misses Anna B. Thompson, Belle Gray, Mary Cavanaugh, departmental work or assistant principalship, Mrs. Maude H. Havenor, former teacher in Madison schools, assignments to be made later. Miss Clara B. Leonard, fifth grade, Draper school, was granted a year's leave of absence.

Sergt. Chester Nielson to be Home Thursday

CLEMENCEAU AND RANTZAU EXCHANGE REPARATION NOTES

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS—The peace conference last night made public the text of German note regarding reparations and the reply made by Premier Clemenceau as president of the conference.

The German note reads: "In the draft of the peace treaty submitted to the German delegates, part VIII, concerning reparation, begins with article 231 which reads as follows:

"The allied and associated governments affirm and Germany accepts the responsibility of Germany and her allies for causing all the loss and damage to which the allied and associated governments and their nationals have been subject as a consequence of the war imposed upon them by the aggression of Germany and her allies."

"Now the obligation to make reparation has been accepted by Germany by virtue of the note from Secretary of State Lansing, of November 5, 1918, independently of the question of responsibility for the war. The German delegation cannot admit that there could arise out of a responsibility incurred by the former German government in regard to the origin of the world war any right for the allied and associated powers to be indemnified by Germany for losses suffered during the war."

"The representatives of allied and associated governments have declared several times that the German people should not be held responsible for the faults committed by their governments. The German people did not will the war and would not have undertaken a war of aggression. They have always remained convinced that this war was for them a defensive war."

"The German delegates also do not share the view of the allied and associated governments in regard to the origin of the war. They cannot consider the former German government as the party which was solely or chiefly to blame for the war. The draft of the treaty of peace committed by you contains no facts in support of this view; no proof on the subject is furnished therein. The German delegates therefore beg you to communicate to them the report of the commission set up by the allied and associated governments for the purpose of establishing the responsibility and authors of the war."

"Pray, accept Mr. President, the assurances of my high consideration. (Signed) Brockdorff-Rantzau."

The text of the reply of Premier Clemenceau is dated May 20, 1919, and is as follows:

"In your note of May 15, you state that Germany, while 'accepting' in November, 1918, the obligation to make reparation, did not understand such an acceptance to mean that her responsibility was involved either for the war or for the acts of the former German government and that it is only possible to conceive of such an obligation if its origin and cause is the responsibility of the authority of the damage. You add that the German people would never have undertaken a war of aggression."

"Yet, in the note from Secretary of State Lansing of November 5, 1918, which you approve of and advise in favor of your contention, it is stated that the obligation to make reparation affixes out of Germany's aggression by land, sea and air."

"As the German government did not at the time make any protest against this allegation, it thereby recognized it as well founded. Therefore, Germany recognized in 1918 implicitly but not clearly, both the aggression and her responsibility. "It is too late to seek to deny them today."

"It would be impossible, you state further that the German people should be regarded as the accomplices of the faults committed by the former German government." However, Germany has never claimed, and such a declaration would have been contrary to all principles of international law, that a modification of its political regime or a change in the governing personalities would be sufficient to extinguish an obligation already undertaken by any nation. She did not act upon the principle she now contends for either in 1871 as regards France after the proclamation of the republic, nor in 1917 in regard

Definite Answer Sent From Berlin to Plenipotentiaries

ASK FOR MORE TIME

New Request Today to Permit Additional Deliberation

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS—Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation, has asked an extension of time for Germany to present her reply regarding the peace terms.

The count stated that further notes were being prepared and that it would be impossible to complete them by 1 p. m. Thursday when the time limit is up.

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN (Delayed)—Germany declines to sign the peace terms laid before it because they spell the "economic destruction, political dishonor and moral degradation of the entire German nation, not only for the present but also for still unborn generations," was a statement authorized by the cabinet this morning through the Associated Press. "That these consequences must logically follow acceptance of the peace conditions, the American press itself has recognized without question," the statement continues. "Toward them Germany took the standpoint that acceptance of such conditions could not be demanded and that the extent was unjustified in imposing such demands."

"Germany has not only a moral right to compliance with the general promises made it, but a firmly grounded, definite, clearly defined claim, according to the basic rules of international law, on all the entente powers and especially on the United States. A specific recognition of the right of Germany and of the German peoples to a peace of right, justice and reconciliation, instead of the paragraphed song of hate which was written at Versailles, is contained in the note of the American Secretary of State, Lansing, of November 5, 1918."

"In it the secretary of state notified the Swiss minister in Washington unconditionally that the established basis of President Wilson's 14 points should be authoritative for the peace conditions."

"Secretary Lansing announced further that the entente governments after careful consideration also were prepared to recognize the conditions set up by President Wilson as the basis for the conclusion of peace."

Mean Moral Breakdown
"The declaration of rights emanating from these specific declarations of all the entente powers and the United States constitutes Germany's sole asset in the general moral breakdown of all international politics which has found unsurpassable expression in the Versailles terms."

"Germany answers them with its clearly juristic right in international law. Toward the political moral bankruptcy of Versailles the German nation stands as a creditor with undeniable rights and it is not in a position to yield on this chief point. Germany concluded peace on the basis of President Wilson's 14 points which all America had made its own."

Tubercular Soldiers Can Get Free Aid

NEW YORK—Sixty-two thousand men afflicted with tuberculosis were barred from the national army, 20,000 others who reached camp were barred for the same reason. At army tuberculosis hospitals, the National Tuberculosis association announced today, six thousand men still in the service are being treated. Soldiers or sailors honorably discharged since October 6, 1917 and suffering from tuberculosis will be given free hospital care upon application to the United States Public Health service.

to Russia after the revolution which abolished the Czarist regime.

"Finally, you ask that the report of the commission on responsibility be communicated to you. In reply we beg to say that the allied and associated powers consider the reports of the commissions set up by the peace conference as documents of an international character which cannot be transmitted to you."

PIERSTORFF PARDON HELD UP 6 MONTHS

Governor Tells Attorney no Action Will be Taken at Present Time

Gov. Philipp will not consider the matter of granting a pardon to W. H. Pierstorff, Middleton, convicted of violating the banking laws and sentenced to Waupun for one year, until one-half of the term has been served. The matter was presented to Gov. Philipp Wednesday by Attorney Vroman Mason.

"At the present time I decline the pardon," said Gov. Philipp. "Ask my father to come in and see me and one-half of the sentence has been served and I will talk the matter over with him."

W. H. Pierstorff was sent to Waupun in January. All moneys were paid back and it was shown that Pierstorff did not profit by the violation of the banking laws.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

RETURN RAIL EFFICIENCY PLAN WELFARE LINES; THINK DETERMINES COMMITTEE TO WETS LOSERS LABOR WAGE AID CHILDREN

Congress Leaders Make Predictions of Possibilities of Legislation

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson's announcement that he intends to return the railroads to private operation at the end of this year and his recommendation for legislation allowing use of wines and light beer until the prohibition amendment becomes effective were the features of his message, about which the interest of members apparently centered.

Republican leader Lodge and democratic leader Martin of the senate declined to comment. Other republican leaders, however, declared that legislation at this session for return of the railroads virtually was assured.

Regarding the prohibition recommendation predictions were general that the repeal legislation requested would not be enacted, although some prohibition advocates favored the president's plans, fearing the war time act cannot be enforced properly and that the result would be prejudicial against the permanent prohibition after Jan. 1, provided in the new constitutional amendment.

English Woman Shows Female Parallels to Male in Production

"Men and women workers in England are asking the same wages for the same job." Mrs. Mary Macarthur, the secretary of the English Trade Union League told the Wisconsin Consumers' League at their luncheon in the woman's building this afternoon.

"Women do not want to be 'cheap workers' but want to be paid on a basis of efficiency and good work done. Men are standing with the women in an effort to do away with the extremes of luxury and poverty."

"All workers in England, now that the war is over, will demand a share of the good things of the world both spiritual and material. They want a new self respect, a share in the control of industry, and a chance to enjoy the highest things in life. They want to know the world of art, science and literature as they have not done before."

"Because they are primarily mothers of children, the women trade unionists in England will work for the child welfare movement first of all. Because they love their country, they will work to make that country keep to the standards of wisdom and justice."

Industrial conditions in England among women workers have faced the fierce light of investigation during the war according to Mrs. Macarthur. With the coming of over a million and a half women into industry, English lawmakers have found it necessary to set definite standards of wages, hours and working conditions, she said.

Do you want your shoes to last longer? If so, you will be interested in these precautions of Miss Agnes Boding of the home economics department of the university. "One of the best ways," says Miss Boding, "is to use the stretcher or shoe tree when the shoes are not on your feet. This helps prevent wrinkles and keeps the shoes in shape. Particularly is this true if the stretcher is placed in the shoe as soon as it is taken from the foot, before the dampness has evaporated and the wrinkles are set."

WOULD TAME BOLSHEVISM BY RELIGION

Presbyterian Convention Advocates Evangelism to Beat Radicalism

(By the Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Evangelism as a means of eradicating Bolshevism and I. W. W.ism was advocated by the board of home missions in its report to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church today.

"Unless the masses are taught the principles of religion, the mad fury of bolshevism with its twin scourge, atheism, will become universal," warned the report. The report recommended increasing the number of missionaries in lumber camps and industrial centers as a method to check the doctrines.

Restrict German Dyes to Barest U. S. Need

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 20.—The importation of German dyes will be prohibited except to the extent that they are needed in the United States, the war trade board announced today. To determine the extent German dyes are needed, the war trade board has appointed an advisory committee composed of eight members, four representing dye producers and four consumers.

Shipbuilders Strike; Protest Dispute Delay

PHILADELPHIA—Six thousand employees of the Merchant Shipbuilding corporation at Harrison, Pa., went on strike today as a protest against uncertainty and delay in settling labor disputes at the yard. The strike is said by leaders to be in the nature of a test case.

STRIKERS LEAVE CITY RUN PLANT

Union Men at Winnipeg
 Called Off Job at Water Works

(By the Associated Press)
 WINNIPEG, Man.—Efforts of the central strike committee to maintain control of local public utilities and the movement throughout the city met with the sharpest opposition today that has been shown since the general strike was declared, last Thursday. When union men at the city works today declined to furnish full pressure, after the council had ordered it, they left the building and their places were filled by a force supplied by the Manitoba Society of Civil Engineers.

Few Deliveries
 Deliveries of gasoline, food and ice were made and an number of small delivery automobiles moved throughout the city. Some vehicles still carried placards declaring that they had received permission from the labor forces to operate. Other delivery vehicles were without cards. Leaders of the central strike committee were in conference until this afternoon and no announcements were authorized.

The second phase of the deadlock between union labor and industrial employers was begun this morning. The citizens committee, which has been preparing for vigilance activities in case of trouble arising from the general strike and which has been attempting to conciliate the opposing factions, issued a proclamation this morning assailing the labor forces and urging business men to resume deliveries and other public business activities today.

More Conferences
 H. G. Veitch, a member of the executive committee of the central strike committee, announced today that negotiations were in progress to develop the "conciliatory conversations" which have been taking place into "direct conferences" looking toward a settlement of the strike.

Immediate restoration of normal city water pressure was ordered by the common council. Low pressure, sufficient for service to one or two story buildings, has been maintained by union men on duty at the water works. Volunteer patrols to protect property and guard against false fire alarms have been organized.

Efforts of the union forces to control the supply and sale of gasoline have not been successful. Gasoline trucks made deliveries to filling stations this forenoon.

War Vets Neutral

Labor supporters who are members of the Great War Veterans' association urged at last night's meeting that the association endorse the strike. After the association voted that such action would be a breach of neutrality, it passed a vote of confidence in its president, R. B. Maxwell.

Musical Comedy Has Tuneful Music and Commendable Acting

"Chin Chin," one of the hits of London, New York and Chicago for the past two years, was enthusiastically received at the Fuller last night by a fair sized crowd.

The music was lovely, the costumes and scenery very pretty and artistic, and the dancing fine. The color schemes were beautiful.

Walter Wills and Roy Binder each play fine parts, the parts made famous by Montgomery and Stone. Both were very clever and Wills was an exceptionally good dancer.

The rest of the cast was good. Edna Peckham as Violet Bond, was very attractive, and danced delightfully. The Goddess of the Lamp was played by Althea Barnes, who was beautiful and statuesque; Jessie Walsh played the part of the American widow, and she did it well. Aladdin, played by George Usher, sang well and danced even better. He was a very light and graceful dancer, reminding one of Donald Brian.

Abanizar, by Joseph Robinson, was manager of the Chinese store. He was the villain.

The saxophone clown sextette, led by Tom Brown, was given much applause.

It was all good, and the audience showed their appreciation by calling back act after act for encores.—Z. B. E.

Albert D. Geigel is

Back From France

Albert D. Geigel, former owner of the Geigel Hardware company on Atwood avenue, has returned to Madison after almost seven months' service at Tour, France, in the intelligence division of the Signal corps with the Second Army. Edward Kune, 117 North Bedford street, was in the same service and returned with Geigel.

Geigel left in the draft last July and sailed for France in September. The division of 303 men have been studying ever since at Tour, France. The work carried on was through listening posts which intercepted enemy propaganda and information. The men returned on the "Siboney," April 27.

CABINET IN STATEMENT OF NO TO ALLIES

and all America, every individual, is responsible for the fulfillment of its claims.

"It is not the German people's business to indicate how its rights shall be realized by the 14 points, or especially by the note of Secretary Lansing.

Look To America

"That rather, is the task of those who constructed the 14 points and brought them to acceptance, thereby inducing Germany to lay down her weapons. We do not believe that President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and the American people can take other than this German standpoint, if they do not wish to do that which President Wilson in his message of December 4, 1917 condemned categorically when he said: 'We would dishonor our own cause if we treated Germany any other than justly and in a nonpartisan manner and did not insist upon justice toward all, no matter how the war ended. We demand nothing which we are not ready ourselves to admit.'

"And the German people demand nothing more than that which President Wilson announced in his declaration. We demand nothing more than that Americans place the 14 points opposite the peace terms. We do not believe that any one in the United States will then have the courage to claim that there can be found in the peace conditions one single trace left of President Wilson's program.

Wants U. S. Action

"And here begins America's definite duty to step in. America either must put its 14 points through or it must declare that it is unable to do so or that it does not want to do so, so that in any case may the world be led to believe that America desires to have the peace conditions count as President Wilson's 14 points.

"That is our demand to which we cling, and we cannot imagine what argument from the American side would be effective against it."

In President Wilson's message to congress of Dec. 4, 1917, no passage can be found in textual agreement with the quotation in the cabinet statement. The quotation appears to be a condensation from the following passage in the message in question:

"We can do this (Concentrate on the prosecution of the task of winning the war) with all the greater zeal and enthusiasm because we know that for us this is a war of high principle, debased by no selfish ambition of conquest or spoliation.

Seek Only Right.

"It is because it is for us a war of high, disinterested purpose, in which all the free peoples of the world are banded together for the vindication of right, a war for the preservation of our nation and of all that it has held dear of principle and of purpose, that we feel ourselves doubly constrained to propose for its outcome only that which is righteous and of irreproachable intention, for our foes as well as for our friends. The cause being just and holy and settlement must be of like motive and quality for this we can fight, but for nothing less noble or less worthy of our traditions."

Meet Under Guard

The peace commission of the national assembly met with the cabinet at 6 o'clock last evening, the session being under guard and held in strictest secrecy. Even members of parliament not belonging to the committee were barred. Bernhard Dernburg and Herr Wissel, minister for social policy, who have returned from Spa, participated in the discussion. The forecasts of the German reply sent out by several foreign correspondents were wholly without foundation and were based on individual conjectures.

Such comment as it was possible to adduce in official quarters permits the inference that the German reply will basically underscore the terms of peace and President Wilson's program, which it will be said was accepted in good faith by both parties as a basis for negotiations.

Expect More Notes

The German peace mission at Versailles will in the course of the next few days transmit a series of important notes dealing with the issues involved in eastern frontier, in Alsace Lorraine and occupied territory, the size of the indemnity, the manner of its payment, German private property in hostile countries and the rights of labor.

CARY CALLED REINSTATEMENT DAY LABOR CZAR BY AN OF EMPLOYEES AT ST. PAUL ASSEMBLYMAN MOVES SLOWLY IN WALKOUT

Hineman Says Educational Machine Has Been Built Up

State Supt. C. P. Cary was designated by Assemblyman Hineman as "an absolute autocrat" Wednesday when Assemblyman Porter offered an amendment to the finance committee budget bill increasing the appropriation for the state superintendent's department.

It was discovered that the amendment increased the appropriation 25 per cent. Members of the finance committee declared that when Mr. Cary appeared before the committee he was apparently satisfied with the various items in the appropriation, that if he really needed more money he should have said so and the committee would have granted it. Assemblyman Metcalfe moved that the bill and amendment be referred to the finance committee.

"I for one want to stand with the finance committee," declared Assemblyman Hineman. "The state superintendent, as you all know, is an absolute autocrat. He has built up a powerful machine in this state and how do we know but what this additional 25 per cent called for in the amendment, which he has succeeded in getting a member of the committee to offer, is not to be used in propaganda, through the Educational News."

Chairman Kurtenacker said he wanted to make no charges, but that there was no getting around the fact that employees of the state superintendent's office, who should be out in the state attending to their duties, are spending more time than is necessary in Madison, buttonholing members of the legislature.

The bill was sent back to the finance committee.

The assembly killed the Hellweg and the Oakes bills providing for semi-annual payment of taxes. It engrossed by a vote of 45 to 23 the Kandutsch bill for a state real estate board; the Axel Johnson bill for the licensing of dogs; the Coe rural planning bill and laid over until Friday; the Nolan bill creating a board of conciliation to handle labor matters and the Knapp bill for a state labor board.

The bill to increase the salary of the superintendent of public property from $3,000 to $4,000 a year was sent back to the finance committee. The assembly adjourned until 9 o'clock Thursday.

Winter Agreement Being Presented to Madison Plow Company Today

But few more than the original 10 per cent of the striking machinists had been reinstated by employers, this morning. With the exception of the Four Lakes Ordnance company, however, the men are being registered for work in accordance with the winter agreement.

At the Four Lakes company the men are awaiting the return of Administrator Winter, who is expected to return from Washington tomorrow morning. No one has attempted to register there since the break with George Steidle, Monday.

The agreement which brought about the compromise with the six larger plants is being presented to the Madison Plow company this morning by Paul Haybrecht. It is believed the proposition will be accepted by the company.

Secretary J. J. Hanley of the State Federation of Labor is addressing a meeting of the men at the Atlas hotel this morning.

With the unions of Madison lined up in support of the machinists' cause, the present settlement is considered by many of the men to be an experiment. If the men are taken back and the award is put into effect, all will be well, but if a large number of men are left without employment and the employers again fall down on their agreement, it means not only a continuation of the machinists' strike but a general strike for the city, they say.

SCHOOL TO CLOSE

The Franklin state graded school closes Memorial day for exercises, which will be held in the South Madison auditorium. The commencement address will be delivered by District Attorney Heilman, address of welcome by Irvin Ward and the valedictorian is Ruth Schnell. Graduating pupils are Ruth Schnell, Florence Bitney, Hazel Steel, Monona Brazee, Gilbert Almusin, Marvin Doubleday, Lester Van Etten, Reubin Graves and Irvin Ward.

George Matts, 22-year-old Madison boy, who was raised at the state school at Sparta, has been apprehended at Dodgeville and has confessed to robbing innumerable gum and candy vending machines both of the goods and of the pennies.

SIXTEEN UNIONS OUT—SYMPATHIZE WITH COMMON LABORER'S DEMANDS

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Members of sixteen different labor unions here, estimated at 5,000 men, went on strike at 8 a. m. today in sympathy with common laborers, who are on strike demanding 50 cents an hour, a raise of ten cents an hour, with a nine hour day and recognition of their union.

The building trades affected are the steamfitters, plumbers, hoisting engineers, electrical workers, plasterers, cement finishers, bricklayers, tile setters, painters, sprinkler fitters, asbestos workers, sheet metal workers, inside iron workers, outside iron workers and stone masons.

Members of the carpenters' union who were on strike last week, said that the strike of the trades building council would not affect them, as a satisfactory settlement concluded their strike this week.

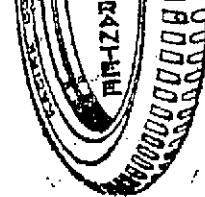

Representatives of the Builders' exchange declared today that the builders would not recognize the common laborers' union.

YES, MAKE THE PEOPLE PAY!

THE joint finance committee of the legislature has devised a scheme whereby some $11,000,000 will be raised through "voluntary subscription" by the people of Wisconsin for the returning soldiers and sailors.

The committee report states that a way has been found to meet "constitutional" objections that have been raised against other plans and we are advised the present plan is perfectly "constitutional."

It is proposed to have a "voluntary" system by which the citizens of Wisconsin will be compelled to pay $3 on each $1,000 of ASSESSED VALUATION. As this burden will fall largely on the common people of the state we presume that no question will be raised as to its "constitutionality."

But why has this system been chosen?

Why has the finance committee worked out a scheme having for its basis ASSESSED VALUATION rather than INCOME? Wouldn't INCOME be the logical basis for such a system? Shouldn't those who have made money out of this war pay more than the man who hasn't?

We hope that there is some one in the legislature who will make a demand that INCOME be substituted for ASSESSED VALUATION.

Or would the INCOME plan be "unconstitutional"? Would it hit the profiteers of the state too hard and therefore be in violation of the dear old constitution which is such a shield to them these days?

Why is it that the question of constitutionality is always raised when it is proposed to aid the state's soldiers? About 80 per cent of the war legislation enacted in this state was unconstitutional. Why so finicky now? Will those who are such sticklers on constitutional points tell us by what authority the governor was permitted to dip into the state treasury in $10,000 chunks to keep the state council of defense going? Will they also tell us where there is any constitutional warrant for paying $250,000 in salaries to members of the draft boards?

Constitutional? It is getting so that the constitution is simply a barrier for the common man and a protection for the rich.

READ HARD'S ARTICLE

WE ARE printing on this page today an article from the New Republic by William Hard on Burleson and the reign of suppression which the Texan inaugurated in this country. We want our readers to read this article. There are things in it that ought to awaken some serious thinking among the people of this country.

SCENIC ROADS OR STATE PARKS

SINCE 1901 Wisconsin has spent $300,000 in the purchase of lands for the state park system. Approximately 11,000 acres have thus been set aside in six parks. These tracts are notable for gravel and beautiful scenery and aside from being preserves of which any state might be proud are definitely set aside as play grounds for the people of the state.

Will our parks be preserved as play grounds? This question has been brought to the front by the disagreement which has arisen over the proposed road from Baraboo to Devil's Lake. What are the state parks for? Are they for the purpose of providing "scenic highways" for automobile tourists honking through the country or for those who come on foot, by train, or in automobile to devote an hour, a day, or a week to the natural beauty or the objects of natural history for which the sites were selected? There is no dispute, it appears, that if the aim is to serve the mere tourists then the proposed road to Devil's Lake should be cut through the fine stretch of woods at the northern end of the lake. There is also no dispute that if the first consideration is for those who come to picnic, to roam in the woods, or to study what nature has provided, the road to the lake should follow the route suggested by those who favor a more easterly approach. Nor does there seem to be any difference of opinion regarding the relative cost of the two routes. The road through the woods is the more expensive.

There is then but one issue: Whether a state park should be regarded as an opportunity for the creation of "scenic highways" to be of chief use to passing tourists, or whether they are to be a great wild play-ground for this and coming generations. The disagreement regarding the Baraboo-Devil's Lake road is therefore of state-wide concern. It is a question of principle and not of detail.

What is the wish of the people of the Wisconsin? Shall the state parks be sacrificed for the benefit of the passerby who uses its roads for a moment of time and is gone? It is has been the aim of the state to provide "scenic highways" for passing automobilists a great deal of money has been spent unnecessarily in the purchase and maintenance of park sites and the opportunity of constructing a great network of "scenic highways" all over the state has been neglected. The fact is that this was not the aim in establishing the parks. Let the people of the state demand that the original aim be adhered to, and let them demand it now when the issue is up in connection with Devil's Lake. What we want to provide is not momentary vistas to be enjoyed by transient tourists through trailing clouds of dust, but parks for the people.

WM. HARD DISCUSSES BURLESON THE ESPIONAGE; TELLS OF THE RESULTS

Writer in New Republic Shows How Public Opinion Has Been Suppressed; Tells of Four Stages

By WILLIAM HARD.

(From The New Republic.)

On May 16th, 1918, a president of the party of Thomas Jefferson signed an act of congress providing, among other things, that the mails should be closed to any "abusive" writing about the "form of government" of the United States.

Thomas Jefferson said: "If there be any among us who would wish to dissolve this union or to change its form, let them stand undisturbed. Let them stand undisturbed as non-emergencies to the safety with which reason is left free to combat it."

Woodrow Wilson said: "If there is one thing we love more than another in the United States, it is that every man should have the privilege, unmolested and uncensored, to utter the real convictions of his mind."

Mr. Burleson said: "Newspapers will not be permitted to say that the Government is owned by Wall Street."

Mr. Burleson was right. Mr. Wilson was wrong. He was wrong about the rest of us and wrong about himself. He was all for letting people talk; but he was all for "drawing the line somewhere," as soon as Max Eastman and Floyd Dell began to talk.

Mr. Creel drew the line even more rapidly. His committee on Public Information issued advertisements warning us in effect against criticizing even the official conduct of the war.

"Report the man who spreads pessimistic stories," said the Committee on Public Information. "Commit him to the Department of Justice."

We applauded. For one letter coming to Washington protesting suppression of speech there were ten urging more suppressions. John Stuart Mill said that no modern democratic elected government was likely ever to attempt any control of opinion "except when in doing so it makes itself the organ of the general intolerance of the public."

He described our case.

It had four stages of development, and then a fifth stage in which we now are—a stage of bewilderment. Having dimmed our minds to the intellectual difficulties of the war, we now find them dimmed to the intellectual difficulties of the peace.

The persecutor," said W. H. Lucky, "can never be certain that he is not persecuting truth rather than error, but he can always be certain that he is suppressing the spirit of truth."

Our first stage was to try to close the mouths of all people hostile to the war. They might think the war unjustifiable. Daniel Webster, in 1847, during the war with Mexico, said: "We are in a most unjustifiable war." In 1918 it was non-mailable, and criminal. In 1918 we followed the spirit of Judge Aldrich of the District of New Hampshire, who said:

"We must in good faith and with courage accept the reasons which the authorities have deemed sufficient to justify war. We must accept those reasons as altogether sufficient."

The bench approved Mr. Burleson. When Mr. Burleson excluded the Milwaukee Leader from the second-class mails because its "tendency" was "seditious"—that is, against the war—he was sustained by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. When he declared the Masses of August of 1917 non-mailable, he was sustained, ultimately, by the New York Circuit Court of Appeals. Ultimately, in all actual decisions of non-mailability, he was always sustained. He was within our spirit and within our law.

We denounced "pacifism" in the same breath with "treason." Born and Liveright of New York published a book by Andreas Latzko entitled Men in War. It was a descriptive book. It described war's horrors, as seen by an Austrian. Mr. Burleson declared it non-mailable. Censorship is rooted in cowardice, and flowers into cowardice. This book, reporting war, affected reality. Under censorship we came to the idea that if the countrymen of George Washington and of Ulysses S. Grant should read Latzko on war they would quake. Personally he ostracized Latzko and broke his book.

That was the first stage—to try to stop criticisms of the war and also of all war. The second was to try to stop criticisms of certain administrative policies of the government—censorship, for example.

The editor of the Jeffersonian, in the southern district of Georgia, was against censorship. He seemed to think, erroneously, that censorship was unconstitutional. He said: "Does not the President know that the Constitution act, forcing citizens out of the Union to die in France, is every bit as lawless as the action of the Phelps Dodge Copper Company in forcing 1,100 miners out of Arizona?" He made this preposterous comparison and found himself outside the second-class mails.

Judge Speer decided that he must stay outside. Mr. Burleson had been quite right. The editor of the Jeffersonian could not question the war, and he could not question censorship.

In 1916 conscription existed in England. In 1916 I sent out from England an interview with Mr. W. A. Appleton, a prominent English labor leader, questioning conscription strongly. I did not admire Mr. Appleton's opinion. My own view was that no temporary coercion of men's bodies by act of Parliament could do any lasting political or moral harm, provided only their minds were left free to agitate against the act, if they wanted to agitate against it, and free therefore to secure its repeal if a majority of voters could be persuaded to demand its repeal.

Besides, I had a prejudice then, as now, in favor of universal liability to military service as the only possible means of getting an army in the full temperament of the whole nation. Volunteer armies are joined almost exclusively by men who are willing to be strike-breakers and who are willing to be imperialistic adventurers in foreign parts. I thought then, and I think now, that the only democratic revolutionary armies possible are armies drawn from the masses of the people. Therefore I did not admire Mr. Appleton's opinion. But I did admire his interview. It was outright, and able, and it made me work to defend myself against its arguments.

I took it to the authorities in London. They passed it and released it at once. I put it into the mails. And I returned to my country, once England's teacher, and found that no American of Mr. Appleton's opinion had Mr. Appleton's liberty.

We sanctified conscription absolutely and continuously. Many other things we sanctified intermittently. Among them was our revenue system. We suppressed an issue of the Public for saying that Congress ought to raise more money by taxes and less by loans. Once, we almost sanctified Mr. Gompers. He suppressed an issue of the Nation for several days and advertised it to the country as a seditious issue—for doing what? For attacking Mr. Gompers' policy as leader of American labor. By such steps we rose to our third stage. In that stage we sanctified the policies of our Allies.

A pamphlet of New York published a pamphlet by Lajpat Rai of India. It was called An Open Letter to David Lloyd George. It dwelt on evils in India—evils of poverty, evils of inadequate popular education, evils of inadequate popular self-government. It deprecated immediate revolt; but it seemed to advocate ultimate revolt, unless the reasons for revolt should be removed.

Now it is perfectly true that people do exist who, if they are brought into vivid contact with England's crimes, will recoil from a war in which England is an ally. Some few people may even sabotage such a war. They may refuse to help lick the Kaiser till England stops helping to lick him. Among them there may be one who will try to blow up a bridge. The theory of free speech is to increase knowledge, even if a few people have to be jailed for using knowledge badly. The theory of censorship is to deprive a whole nation in order to prevent a few people from putting us to the trouble of physically stopping them. Lajpat Rai's discussion of Anglo-Indian politics was thrown out of the American mails.

Mr. Burleson, in this stage, protected our minds from Indian agitators and from many other agitators, and from the Pope.

There was a paper in New York called the Freeman's Journal and Catholic Register. There used to be. But it printed too many things noted by Mr. Burleson's assistants and marked with their pencils.

It printed an article earnestly and religiously criticizing the treaty under which the Allies were said to have barred the Pope from having anything to do with the conclusion of peace; and it printed a quotation from the Pope, on patriotism in which the Pope said that "no man can be loyal to his country unless he is first loyal to his conscience and his God." Mr. Burleson's assistants objected to both the article and the quotation. They lifted their pencils and marked the Pope.

The Freeman's Journal and Catholic Register also printed many articles and quotations about Ireland. It printed an opinion by Thomas Jefferson that Ireland should be a republic. Mr. Burleson's assistants marked Thomas Jefferson. It printed George Washington's address against "the insidious wiles of foreign influence." Mr. Burleson's assistants marked George Washington.

Thirteen issues of The Freeman's Journal and Catholic Register were jammed up in the mails. It was a little paper. Its editor, Mr. A. Brendan Ford, wrote a farewell editorial in which he showed how he had been "made to realize" that he at least could not speak regarding self-determination of Ireland, or "in defense of the Vicar of the Prince of Peace." Mr. Ford is an old man, venerable for appearance, venerable for recollection. When he was a boy, he worked in the shop of William Lloyd Garrison's Liberator. He has lived to see his own paper destroyed because he could not and would not and did not on the afternoon of April 6, 1917, suddenly turn his back on Ireland and on the head of his faith.

Mr. Burleson protected us against the Pope and against Mr. Ford on behalf of the British empire and on behalf of a certain anti-Papal policy of the Italian government. It was a logical incident of stage three.

In stage four we went on to deal with our outright military enemies. We were becoming skillful now and ambitious. We were not content, in stage four, with negative protection. We advanced to a protection really positive. We decided that we would make our own pictures of certain of our enemies, through our own bureau of official enemy portraiture at Washington and that no other pictures of such enemies would then be either official or patriotic.

Nikolai Lenin, meanwhile, had made a speech in Moscow on The Soviets at Work. It was printed in Izvestia, official organ of the Soviet government. Adventurously it was reprinted, in a pamphlet, by the Rand School in New York. Reading it now, we overhear Lenin speaking to his own people, not to us. We overhear him. We eavesdrop on his incitements of Russia to riot and ruin. What does he say? "Conduct a merciless struggle against chaos." "Raise the productivity of labor." "Establish universal accounting." "Maintain strict discipline at work."

"Give no pre-eminence to Red Guard methods." "Pay a high remuneration to specialists." "Pay them 100,000 rubles a year if necessary." "Get rid of grafters." "Execute grafters." "Introduce the Taylor System of Scientific Management." "Make everybody work."

Mr. Burleson declared this pamphlet non-mailable. Then and there he brought censorship to the final flash of the full message of its meaning. Censorship may start as the creature of popular impulse. It ends inevitably as the engine of purely official impulse.

Officially Mr. Lansing and Mr. Creel had contrived a certain explanation of Lenin. Out of the materials at their disposal they had sincerely given us to understand that Lenin was a cheap vulgar crook, the satellite of the Kaiser. Now, with the Kaiser gone, and Lenin still among us, and with millions of rubles lying at Lenin's disposal in Russian banks for eighteen months, and with Stokholm and foreign exchange and luxury not in stock by and with Lenin not in Stockholm and with Lenin not being shot at, we begin to feel that the materials at Mr. Lansing's and Mr. Creel's disposal are quite considerably insufficient. We begin to feel that somehow Lenin has fooled us. But Lenin's own words would have done a great deal to set us right about him, eight months ago.

The Soviets at Work is an unintentional but indubitable self-portrait. It reveals a scholastic pedant, a man walking the world with a colossal magnificent mission—or mirage—of perfect technical-economic organization, beyond self, beyond personality. It may be the product of an intellectual monster, intellectualizing the world to its ruin. It is not the production of a pick-pocket.

But Washington was now master. It helped the Committee on Public Information to circulate the official portrait of Lenin. It would not allow the Rand School to circulate Lenin himself.

We were within striking distance now of the conclusion that no arguments of any sort against any of our public ideas or against any of our public institutions ought ever to be put into circulation in any manner. Judge Wade of the southern district of Iowa struck it first. He made a speech on our school and said:

"I would not permit an expression which indicated doubt. I would not picture the blessings of other lands except as, by comparison, the blessings of this land might be exalted. I would not discuss the extent of the liberty of any people on earth except as such study would prove that ours is the land of the free. I would have no discussion of the comparative government except in so far as the comparison might be to the absolute advantage of our own forms of government."

He used the very words of the Espionage law. His was the mood in which we met the issues of the war, the mood of listening to only our own side; and now we have to meet the issues of the peace in the mental condition consequent. Our general uncertainty, our popular purposelessness, as we look at a conquered world and wonder what to do with it, has many causes, doubtless; but one of them, surely, and a large one, is our ignorance of our opponents, of those who dissent from us, at home and abroad. By weakening our knowledge of their arguments, we have weakened our knowledge of our own purposes. John Stuart Mill said that "He who knows only his own side knows little of that." Once more he described our case.

But that is not our case only. It is also the case of every other country. England has kept more free speech than America. But in England, nevertheless, as everywhere else, the principle of free speech, as a principle, has been deeply undermined, popularly and officially.

Let us not flinch from the fact. We gained no military or intellectual advantage by jailing Bertrand Russell in England or by suppressing Lenin's pamphlet in America. What we accomplished was simply to gratify our growth in the passion of coercion and to exhibit our decline in the sense of liberty.

Free speech seems to be an antique Jeffersonian Victorian liberal sentimental dogma, with few believers left. It thrills our modern scientific radicals as feebly as it thrills our surviving Tories. Mr. Burleson suppresses a work of Lenin's; and in the very work suppressed, Lenin says: "We must mercilessly suppress the thoroughly dishonest and insolently slanderous bourgeois press."

Who's Who At Wisconsin Things You Want To Know

(From The Cardinal.)

When Prof. John Rogers Commons was 13 years old he put on an ink-grimed apron and started working as a printer's apprentice. With the tang of fresh ink in his nostrils and the din of presses in his ears he spent much of his youth in printing offices and before he was out of his teens could "stick" type as fast as the fastest in the days before clacking linotype machines outsped the old-time doct-fingered veterans of the case. Professor Commons set up many a column of news for dailies in Cleveland, O., and worked in printing offices in Florida, Michigan and various other states. But his determination to get a thorough education while it may have robbed the printing trade of a likely journeyman, gave to Wisconsin and to American at large value in his research and achievements in economic, political and sociological fields.

Professor Commons was born at Hollandburg, O., Oct. 13, 1862. Receiving his high school training at Winchester, Ind., in the graduating class of 1881, he was in good company with James P. Goodrich, present governor, and James E. Watson, senior senator of Indiana as classmates. Professor Commons took his college course at Oberlin, receiving his A. B. degree in 1883 and the A. M. degree from the same institution two years later after graduate study at Johns Hopkins university. A quarter century afterward in 1915, Oberlin honored him with the LL. D. degree.

He became an instructor at Wesleyan university, Middletown, Ct., in 1890, and on Christmas of the same year was married to Ella Brown Downey of Akron, O. In 1892 Professor Commons was called to Oberlin as professor of sociology, went to fill the same chair at Indiana university the next year, and joined the faculty of Syracuse university in a similar professorship in 1895, serving there four years.

In 1901 as expert agent of the United States Industrial Commission he had opportunity to go deep into the problems of immigration and labor and wrote the main report on those topics covering the work of the commission. In 1902 he became assistant secretary of the National Civic Federation, serving until 1904 when this connection with Wisconsin began as professor of political economy.

Professor Commons' contributions toward making the Wisconsin economics department known for its strength the world over has been enriched by his valuable and active efforts in "copying principles of enlightened economics and sociology to the field of legislation and civic reform. He has been associate director of the American Bureau of Industrial Research with Professor Ely since 1904. In 1907-08 the Pittsburgh Survey of the Russell Sage Foundation conducted partly under his direction with the assistance of Wisconsin students in political economy, for the first time threw the social searchlight into the working conditions and relations between employers and employees in a representative corner of the eastern industrial area.

After having drafted the law creating the Wisconsin Industrial Commission, which the legislature passed in 1911, Professor Commons was appointed a member of the commission, serving the short term till 1913, by which time the new body was in smooth running order. In 1910 as director of the Milwaukee Bureau of Economy and Efficiency, Professor Commons, with 18 months work, accomplished through the bureau an overhauling of several departments in Milwaukee's municipal government and succeeded in establishing a legislative reference library there. He was a member of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations in 1913-15, and was president of the American Economic Association in 1917.

Besides being a contributor to reviews and periodicals, Professor Commons is author of "The Distribution of Wealth," "Social Reform and the Churches," "Proportional Representation," "Regulation and Restriction of Output by Employers and Unions," "Races and Immigrants in America," "Labor and Administration," "Labor Legislation" (with John B. Andrews), "History of Labor in the United States," (with six of his graduate students), and "Industrial Good Will," the latter volume making its appearance the present year. He is associate editor of "A Documentary History of American Industrial Society," in ten volumes.

AUTHORITIES SAY SELF POISONING VERY PREVALENT

Auto-Intoxication, or Slow Self Poisoning, Cause of Most Ill Health and Disease

Advanced medical authorities assert that auto-intoxication is the foundation of most of the ills and diseases to which the human flesh is heir.

This condition is nothing more nor less than the slow self-poisoning of the vital organs produced by the excessive mental and physical strain which we are forced to endure, which renders the organs lame and inactive, and permits toxins—actual poisons—to be generated within one's own body.

Usually the trouble starts in the stomach; sometimes it starts in the stomach, liver, or kidneys, but in any case the blame lies with the faulty method of living, and may be traced to over-eating, excessive nervous strain, lack of exercise, or other causes. At any rate it is the most important organs that suffer the most damage and when they fail to perform their duties the body is up with acids and poisons, and the victim often yields to their harmful influences. Bright's disease, heart trouble, high blood pressure, rheumatic affections, and other troubles are frequently the result of self poisoning or auto-intoxication.

A tired, draggy feeling of the body, a sluggish mind and dull memory, intense nervousness, headache, stomach and bowel troubles, poor circulation, imperfect indigestion, constipation and despondency are among the symptoms of auto-intoxication, and nine out of every ten of the American people are likely to be so affected.

There, the powerful reconstructive and systemic tonic, was designed to overcome these very troubles. There is not a single part of the body that is not benefited by the helpful work of this celebrated preparation, which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby purifying the blood and invigorating the entire system. Composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science, it enables the stomach to thoroughly digest the food, thereby permitting the assimilation of the food into the blood, and the products to be converted into muscle and bone.

It overcomes the great exciting cause of nervous weakness. It renders the body vigorous and elastic, it keeps the mind clear and energetic, and it cures the symptoms of nervousness and indigestion. It builds up the constitution weakened by disease, and restores the physical over-worked system to its normal state.

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

This excellent, common-sense health measure being adopted by millions.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste, sallow complexion, acid stomach, others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

police are in Camp Grant. The celebration will be held either Thursday or Friday. Don't fail to get into your uniform and meet at the armory.

L. C. Currier, chairman, John L. Quam of Madison was a Stoughton visitor yesterday.

Oscar Olson, West Randolph street, arrived home Saturday from Camp Grant where he was mustered out of the service. He was a member of the 32nd division.

Amil Harried has returned home from Aurora, Ill., where he was called some time ago by the illness of his brother, Leonard, who is ill with double pneumonia. Amil says his brother is out of danger.

Ragnar Sandquist and Arvid Franzen will be at the armory next Friday evening. They both play at the same time on one instrument. Dance at 8:30 o'clock.

Postmaster Drotning was in Madison on business yesterday.

Hazel Foss, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Foss, who reside near Stoughton, yesterday had her tonsils and adenoids removed at the Stoughton hospital.

Mrs. Jerome Gunsolus yesterday was operated upon at the Stoughton hospital for a tumor.

L. C. Currier and C. S. Crosse left for Camp Grant yesterday to meet the boys of the 107th Military Police, and to find out what time they will be coming home. It is believed by many that the boys will arrive this evening and not later than Thursday evening.

A warning of the boys' arrival will be given in the afternoon by four long blasts of our factory whistles. Be sure to decorate your windows.

President Ross Hyland of the Town and Country association, Secretary J. A. Davidson and several business men motored to Janesville yesterday to get pointers on the way in which the housing problem is solved in Janesville.

Why Lack of Iron Keeps Women Weak, Nervous, Fretful and Run-Down

While Plenty of Red Blood Rich in Iron Helps Make Them Strong, Healthy and Beautiful.

How Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—helps Solve Problem of Supplying Iron Deficiency, Thereby Increasing the Strength and Endurance of Delicate Care-worn Women in Two Weeks Time in Many Instances.

Many a woman who ought still to be young in feeling is losing the old-time vim and energy that makes life worth living simply because her blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron. It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood that life-sustaining oxygen enters the body and enables the blood to change food into living tissue, muscle and brain.

In commenting upon the alarming iron deficiency in the blood of the average woman of today, Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey said:

"What women need to put roses in their cheeks and the springtime of life into their hair is not cosmetics or stimulating drugs, but plenty of rich pure red blood. Without it no woman can do credit to herself or to her work. Iron is one of the greatest of all strength and blood builders and I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red blooded women as Nuxated Iron. From a blood examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron, I feel convinced that it is a preparation which will give you the best results in the shortest time. It is a highly beneficial and satisfactory remedy." Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author says: "I have

Two Candidates in Triangle Fight for Badger Managership

Frank W. Kuehl

Carl F. Deysenroth and Frank W. Kuehl are waging active campaign for the positions of business manager of the 1921 Badger. Deysenroth has as his platform efficient management of the year-book and a clean class slate. Kuehl is placing experience as his talking point. He has had four years' experience on annuals of other schools, he has had executive experience as principal of the Iron River, Michigan high school for two and one-half years. He has had experience on both the editorial and business staffs of newspapers. In the election to be held Friday Charles A. Gutenkunst is the third man in the field.

TWO KINDS OF MEN LIVING, SAYS OTTO

Man's Choice Makes Him What He Wants To Be

That there are just two kinds of people in this world, those who contract themselves and those who expand themselves, and that the contracting kind exists in a great majority, was the statement made by Prof. M. C. Otto, of the philosophy department, at Y. W. C. A. vesper services Sunday afternoon. "By contracting selves I mean those people who are constantly eliminating or resigning their interests, those who become engrossed in narrower and narrower pursuits, or those who we commonly call defeated souls."

"By those who expand I mean either those who become larger and larger to possess material goods and power, or those whose souls expand through production of purposes and things."

"The contracting persons are in the great majority in the world," declared Professor Otto. "It is only the minority which expands, and only the minority of the minority which expands in the right way."

Professor Otto went on to tell how the individual can make himself practically what he wants to. "Through heredity and environment play an important part in moulding the life of men, the choice that the individual himself makes can change him. Every time we are choosing a certain line of conduct we are becoming a new self, and the way to reach a certain ideal is to act in the manner that the ideal would not. If we do this, the characteristics that we want to get rid of will take care of themselves."

"You cannot destroy a desire for a greater self. If it is suppressed, checked, or dammed up it will appear later in some other form."

CRICKET FEATURES FIELD DAY PROGRAM

May Pole and Folk Dancing are Scheduled for June 7

A May Pole dance, folk dancing, and a champion cricket game are the main events scheduled for field day, June 7.

The championship cricket game is a new feature of the field day program. This is the first year cricket has been played here and it has been found a popular sport. The game is an English one but it has been played in the east for some time. It is popular at Smith college.

The regular May Pole dance will be given by a group of girls whom Miss M. R. McKee is training. Aside from this one hundred girls are wanted for the folk dances. These women must sign on the S. G. A. bulletin board in Lathrop before Thursday night so the names can be placed on the field day program. All university women taking sports this spring are eligible for the folk dances, and no special practicing will be required for them.

CLEF CLUB GIVES RECITAL TONIGHT

The annual open recital of Clef club will be held tonight at 8:15 o'clock in Lathrop parlors. Faculty and students are invited by the club to attend.

ALL-UNIVERSITY MIXER POSTPONED

Because of a conflict in date with the junior class play, "The Roman-cars," the International club mixer to be given Friday night has been postponed until Thursday, May 29.

The club planned the big all-university mixer for Friday night, and a number of tickets have already been sold for that date. These tickets will hold good for the mixer next week. As it is the big dramatic event of the season, the junior play will be the leading attraction for student attendance Friday night. The International club mixer is planned for next week as a Memorial Day party.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA CAN RULE ITSELF

State is Capable, Declares Pergler, Commissioner to U. S.

"The formal recognition by the United States of the Czechoslovak republic on Sept. 3, 1918, marked the struggle of years of this country in its efforts for its independence in the political world," said Charles Pergler, commissioner from Czechoslovakia to the United States, in the peace course Tuesday.

"The Americans have always known the Czechs as Bohemians and have recognized the Slovaks as entirely different people; while in reality there is no more difference than there is between a northerner and a southerner in your country. The Czechs lived under the domination of the Hapsburgs and the others under the Maygars or Hungarians for centuries."

"Czechoslovakia has some very tremendous problems, and the peace of the world may be involved in the question as to whether the new republic exists and maintains a government which will stand in the future. But if ever a nation has so far exhibited its capacity to govern itself, it is Czechoslovakia."

According to Mr. Pergler the Germans of Bohemia are not going to receive the same treatment that they have given the Bohemians in times past. "We are not going to use German methods in dealing with Germans. We are not going to suppress their schools nor molest their rights; but they will have to be contented to live on an equal plane with others, which," he added, "does not suit the taste of any modern man of Germany."

Greeley Lectures on Work in Laborator at Y

Dr. H. P. Greeley, co-worker with the noted Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell in medical work among the natives of Labrador, brought an interesting account of Dr. Grenfell's achievements to university men and women in an illustrated lecture at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Dean and Mrs. F. W. Roe and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Haswell were hosts at the informal reception preceding the lecture, that was followed by light refreshments and a sing. Only one more number remains in the series of Sunday evening assemblies.

Your Catarrh May Lead To Consumption

Dangerous to Experiment With Treatment That Gives Only Temporary Relief.

You see everywhere people who stopped up air passages, who seem to breathe only with the greatest difficulty. There is a constant hacking and spitting in an effort to clear the throat and nostrils, and what appears at first to be only a slight cold holds on with stubbornness until a fully developed case of Catarrh has the victim firmly within its grasp.

There is not the slightest doubt that all this suffering is caused by a tiny disease germ that gets into the blood and multiplies by the million. The catarrh germ attacks the delicate mucous membranes of the nose, throat and air passages.

These become choked up with the accumulations, seriously interfering with the breathing apparatus, and causing untold suffering. There is usually a cough, irritated throat, soreness of the membranes and constant discomfort.

If you have ever been afflicted with Catarrh, you know something of the suffering and inconvenience the disease causes. You know, too, that it cannot be cured by the application of sprays, lotions, ointments, jellies, or other local treatment. Even if such treatment does succeed in opening the stopped-up passages for a while, they soon become clogged again, and there is no progress made toward a cure of the disease.

In addition to the suffering and inconvenience caused by Catarrh, there is always danger that the disease will gradually go lower into the throat and attack the bronchial passages, and eventually involve the lungs. Many a case of consumption has developed from a severe attack of Catarrh.

The most satisfactory treatment for Catarrh is S. S. S., the unrivaled blood purifier, which goes promptly to the source of the disease, cleanses the blood directly to its source, cleansing the blood thoroughly, and building up and renewing the entire system.

S. S. S. has been on the market for more than fifty years, and has been thoroughly tested in thousands of cases of Catarrh. If you want to be rid of the disease, throw away your makeshift remedies, and begin on S. S. S. today. You will be delighted with the results, as others have been. S. S. S. is sold by drug stores everywhere.

When you begin taking this remedy, you are invited to write for free medical advice and instruction about your own individual case. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 196 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.—(Adv.)

ASKS STATE AID

Dairy and Food Commissioner George J. Weigle has received a request from a Milwaukee man, who asked that his name be withheld, to assist in solving a murder mystery and incidentally to lay a ghost whose nightly excursions have often disturbed him.

With the letter came a package containing earth and lime, which the applicant says he excavated from the basement of the house in accordance with directions given by the spook. The commissioner is requested to examine its contents for traces of human remains, the spook having stated that a murder occurred there 18 years ago.

The letter tells of many ghostly manifestations. Some times doors would open and close mysteriously; weird blasts of wind coursed through the house; the figure of a man appeared over the beds of the children, and sometimes choked them. The wife of Mr. —, to revert to the technique of authenticating ghost stories, got into communication with the spook by mediumistic means and received information of the murder. Having gotten the story off his chest, the spirit stated that he was happy and would depart and annoy others no more. He kept his word. Mr. Weigle's informant says he does not now live at the Walnut street residence in Milwaukee, but that the present occupant has heard nothing of the spirit.

The Danielson, Mueller and Simpson baseball team has reorganized with J. H. Ottow as business manager and is looking for games with strong local or outside teams of amateur standing. The D. M. & S. nine won the city championship in 1916 and played in the City League in 1917. The manager can be reached at 213 Buell street, Madison, Wis., or at Badger 6129.

Roundy Coughlin announces that the plans for a strong team to represent Madison in the semi-professional ball field are advancing. E. J. McElrath has agreed to furnish uniforms for the team which will go under the name of the Glasgow Tailors.

Skinny Knoche had a bad case of the "Buck" at Milwaukee, Saturday. Wonder what was the matter. Some reports say that he did not get organized right. Must have been a little bashful as there were ladies present, but no "birds."

Joe Hackett and Gabe Saddy bowled into fifth place in the world open tournament at Milwaukee, Sunday, in the doubles with a score of 1,210. Tony Schwoegler accounted for 1,613 pins in the all-events and would have been right up ahead if he hadn't fell down to about 150 in his last game. Pete Reif, 646; Joe Kaether, 644; and Joe Hackett, 601, rolled some high singles games. The Pan Dandy Breads, handicapped by the loss of Ed Winko, rolled the highest among the Madison teams—2,701. Horace Stierman, a former Madison bowler, subbed for Ed and spoiled the team score.

Four teams made the trip, the Pan Dandy Breads—Tony Schwoegler, Frank Kartheiser, Art Heilman, Carl Luckenmeyer; the Park Alleys—Lee Sherman, E. Hackett, William Blau, Gabe Saddy, Joe Hackett; the Frank's Restaurant five—John Schaub, Chuck Rieder, W. Kaether, J. Kaether, Skinny Knoche; the Lawrence Lunch five—Mike Dickert, George S. Peter, W. Fuller, Tom Carey and Pete Reif.

The Madison Marines, who won over the Northwestern second team 10 to 5 Sunday, have several out-of-town games pending and may play outside city next Sunday. Games can be arranged by calling Badger 669.

Varsity To Entertain Prep School Teams Saturday

214 ATHLETES
COMPETE HERE
IN STATE MEET

22 High Schools Enter
Interscholastic Day
Events

With twenty-two high schools entering 214 athletes to compete for state honors, eclipsing the record of entries for a number of years back, Wisconsin's twenty-fourth annual interscholastic track and field meet, to be held Saturday at Camp Randall, looms up as the big red letter event of the 1919 athletic calendar.

Interscholastic Day will be crowded with athletic events that will draw out over sport fan in the university in support of the state meet.

"The entire university should swing wide its doors Saturday to greet this large representation of high school athletes," said Director T. E. Jones of the athletic department yesterday. "Every student should feel it his duty to aid in entertaining these visitors, who are to be guests of the university in a real sense."

Entries Increased
Last year only thirteen schools of the state were represented by 150 men, a falling off in entries due largely to war conditions. Back in 1904 twenty-nine schools with 223 athletes were entered and in 1910 there were thirty-one schools competing with 191 entries. The twenty-two schools entered for Saturday's contest are as follows:

Appleton, Beloit, La Crosse, Lake Mills, Madison, Merrill, Milwaukee North, Milwaukee South, Milwaukee East, Milwaukee West, Milwaukee Washington, Mineral Point, New Richmond, Oshkosh, Plymouth, Racine, Soldiers Grove, Sheboygan, Shawano, Stoughton, Sun Prairie, Wisconsin High.

Stolley Scored
Spetz, freshman sprint star, was largely responsible for Milwaukee North's victory in the meet last year, winning 15 of his school's 27 points by taking first in the 220-yard dash, the 440-yard dash, and the broad jump. Graf, starring for the freshmen in the 440, won first in the half mile for Milwaukee North. Stolley, another freshman star this year,

Wisconsin Lost First Game
To Northwestern
2 to 1

Varsity tennis, with Wisconsin and Chicago opponents in a conference court match, will add to the program for interscholastic day next Saturday.

Wisconsin lost its first conference tennis game last Saturday to Northwestern university at Evanston, 2 to 1. It was the third conference victory for the Purple.

Jolan, Northwestern, won over Godfredson in the first set, 6-2 and 6-3. In the second, Taylor defeated Singleton, Northwestern, 6-3, 1-2, 6-3. In the doubles, the Purple team Jolan and Kraft, won over the Badger team, Godfredson and Taylor, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

Merrill High Wins
Stevens Point Trophy

STEVENS POINT, Wis.—The Pasternacki silver cup is now the permanent property of the Merrill high school as a result of their third annual victory in the Central Wisconsin track and field meet, which event took place here. Wausau and Stevens Point had each won the Pasternacki cup twice and therefore this year's rivalry was unusually keen. Other schools taking part in the events were Waupaca, Shawano, Grand Rapids, and Appleton.

was a big factor in placing Milwaukee East second in the standing. Norem, now a freshman weight star, won the javelin throw for Milwaukee South; and set a new record of 153 feet 9 inches.

A loving cup is awarded to the school winning the meet, and individual prizes of silver medals are given to the winners of the first three places in each event. A loving cup is also awarded to the winning relay team. Thirteen schools have entered teams for the half-mile relay. Elaborate plans are being made for the entertainment of the high school visitors. A Sightseeing committee, "Mike" Ramsay, chairman, will meet all trains and arrange for the tour by auto about the university. A Housing committee under "Bob" Rewey also has general charge of entertainment for the visitors.

ZBYSZKO'S MASTER
GETS MANY OFFERS

CHICAGO—As a result of his victory over Wladok Zbyszko at the Coliseum last Monday night, when he won two of three falls from the Pole, Ed Strangler Lewis was besieged with offers yesterday. He has arranged to take part in some minor bouts in the east, but will not engage in a championship contest for at least two months.

Zbyszko won the first fall in 1:36:52 with a reverse body lock. Lewis won the next two in 48:35 and 12:56 with head locks.

WILLARD TO START
TRAINING IN WEEK

TOLEDO, O.—Jess Willard notified Tex Rickard by telegraph that he would leave Los Angeles next Saturday, which will bring him into Toledo next Tuesday or Wednesday.

TOLEDO, O.—When Jack Dempsey, who will try to drop Jess Willard and cop the heavyweight championship in battle at Bayview park, July 4, retired in his newly acquired training camp on Maumee bay, Monday night, he was housed on a peninsula. When he arose and peeked out of the window Tuesday morning he was on an island, as a result of a heavy storm on Lake Erie.

The Wingra Lands are scheduled to roll their games in the world open tourney at Milwaukee next Saturday. Fred Gaucier, Jake Esser, Tom Williams, George Fitch, Beckman, and Fred Kramer will make the trip. Fred is down for an "a la Daniel Webster" at the banquet of the Milwaukee Bowling association. We predict that Patrick Henry will turn green with envy in his grave before Fred relinquishes the floor.

Kerensky and Others Seek International Aid to Pacify Country

(By the Associated Press)
PARIS—A. F. Kerensky former Premier of Russia and seven other members of the Russian constituent assembly and members of the Russian Union for the regeneration of Russia today appealed to the democracies of the world for prompt action with a view to helping Russia out of her present chaotic condition.

It proposes the organization of a mission composed of delegates from all the powers and including representatives of organized labor which will go to Russia and explain to the people and the different Russian governments the democratic aims they are pursuing.

The appeal says:
"It should be stated categorically that the different governments repudiate the idea of any intervention likely to infringe on the sovereign rights of Russia."

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul baseball team has reorganized for the season with the following officers: George E. Ballard, president; Frank Moore, treasurer; E. J. Currie, manager; and W. Harrington, captain. The following players have been asked to report: Bob Roberts, J. Murphy, R. Harrington, E. J. Currie, Degney, Standard, Devereaux, R. Daggett and other St. Paul men who want to try out for the team are asked to report for practice at Brittingham park next Sunday at 3 o'clock.

Carroll, the high school star, who pitched for the Marines against the Railroaders, held the losers in check at all times and was never in serious danger.
